BOARD OF TRADERS MET IN BANQUET

HAD FINE DINNER AND HEARD GOOD SPEECHES.

Willard E. King of Bay City Was Principal Speaker. C. E. Doty, Toastmaster.

It was not so easy to pry Willard E. King away from his important duties as the head of a large insurance company in Bay City, to come to Grayling to give a talk before the members of the Grayling Board of Trade and others. It happened that a few of our members had heard Mr. King before and they just would not take no for an answer so it was finally arranged that he should be with us Tuesday night, April 12.

In order that everybody should feel in a happy mood a fine dinner was provided. This was furnished by the ladies of the Danish Aid Society. The menu was Danish almost throughout and those who have had the pleasure of enjoying real Danish dishes will well know that the dinner was delicious. The men did hearty justice to the repast. There were songs and orchestra music, the latter being furnished by the High School orchestra. Everywhere there was good cheer and good feeling; everybody was happy and after tucking such a fine dinner under their belts the men were ready for anything. That was just what President C. W. Olson wanted and he opened the speaking program. He introduced Rev. C. E. Doty as toastmaster.

The latter let loose with both barrels and kept up the bombardment to the finish; he had ammunition to burn and he burned a lot of it on every fellow who was called upon to speak.

Preliminary to the principal address there were short talks by T. F. Marston, of Bay City, secretary of the Northeastern Michigan Development bureau, Rev. W. Walters of this city and Attorney E. M. Harris of West Branch. Each had something of interest and appropriate to say and their talks were much enjoyed.

Willard E. King of Bay City was down for the principal address of the evening. His talk was a masterpiece and every utterance an inspiration. The importance of a commercial organization, such as a Board of Trade, was psychologically told, and also many fine suggestions were offered that are sure, if carried out, to be of big benefit to the Grayling Board. His talk was well interspersed with interesting and humorous stories and many points made were nicely illustrated. It certainly is a delight to hear such men as Mr. King, and we hope he will come again.

Following Mr. King's address O. P. Schumann made a few remarks in the interest of memberships. At this period a number of application blanks were passed and a goodly number new members were enrolled. The board recently purchased the furniture and equipment of the Grayling Social club and the investment made the organization "close to the cushion" financially, but the membership is now over fifty and is steadily growing so that they are now on "easy street." It is hoped, however, to increase their bank account so that some judicious advertising may be done.

One feature of the program was to have been an address by C. Y. Liu, a Chinese student of the University of Michigan. That noon a message was received advising that he had died and his train would be here the following morning. However this was too late for the banquet and he was wired not to come. He failed to receive the message and came the next morning, just as we said he would, and many were disappointed that he was unable to reach here the night before. He returned the same day. He was invited here by Mr. J. Hanson, chairman of the famine relief committee of Crawford County, to tell of the conditions of his native country and give us some first-hand information relative to the imperative needs of his fellow countrymen.

Mr. Hanson said that he would take the place of Mr. Liu and give a brief description of the famine conditions of China. At the close of the meeting voluntary subscriptions to the famine fund reached about $60.00 from those present.

Five Reasons Why I Should Belong to the Board of Trade.

Why should I belong to the Grayling Board of Trade is a question many a citizen is asking himself after listening to the inspiring speeches at the Board of Trade Banquet. Because: No chain is stronger than its weakest link and in this time of Cooperation is absolutely necessary to get ahead. If our town is not making headway it is up to its people to get onto the bandwagon and turn the tide.

We list below a few good reasons why every public spirited citizen should join.

1. The Board of Trade is the one organization that is organized and works only for the welfare of our town.
2. Boosting! All of us like to boost about our family and home, why stop there? By boosting our town we boost ourselves.
3. Self Respect. I want to do my bit and not depend upon my neighbor to give his time and money to help benefit me.
4. Self Interest. If the town gets more business and tourist trade my property will appreciate with the rest.
5. Sociability. To rub elbows with my fellow men.

CLINIC COMES TO CRAWFORD COUNTY.

Grayling and Frederic will be visited during the week of April 25 by the traveling health clinic of the Michigan department of health on its swing southward to the lower tier of counties in the state. The first four days of the week will be spent in Grayling, clinics being held in Frederic on Friday, April 23.

Complete physical examinations will be made of both children and adults, free of charge, the clinic being divided in two units with a specialist heading each division. Two graduate nurses assist the physicians in clinical routine.

Speaking on the purpose of the clinic Dr. R. M. Olin, commissioner of health, especially urges that Crawford county children who are backward in school, underweight and "skinny," or have recently recovered from some severe sickness, attend the children's unit for examination at either Grayling or Frederic. Records of all clinical findings are referred to family physicians.

"Airplane accidents in the late war were declared frequently to be due to a 'tiring' of the engines on account of constant use," states Dr. Olin. "If steel and the highest grade of machinery science and industry can devise 'tire' and break under severe strain," he continued, "it is certainly impossible for the human body—the most delicate machine at best, and often an imperfect machine—to withstand constant lack of care and attention. The value of human life is greater than that of any machine. It is indeed a wise man who pauses in his life's work now and then for a complete physical examination—an inventory of his vital equipment."

COME ON BOYS! WHAT'S EATING YOU?

You Gals, Leathernecks, Doughboys: How do you get that way? Going to be hard boiled all your life?

Look it here! This ain't a shave-tail, one-striper, nor petty officer hollerin' at you. Just a plain and ordinary gold-bricker, that's all. And you're being ast, nice and politely invited, bowed down to, boned to get in on a good thing. But here you've been dodgin' detail right along. What's the idea? Why can't you come along with us guys and join the American Legion? Come on boys step up.

Grayling Post 106.

SATURDAY APRIL 16TH, ONE O'CLOCK, COURT HOUSE.

Contestants from the Grayling Schools will compete for honors with the Frederic School and Rural Schools. An admission fee of ten cents will be charged. Prizes will be given.

TWO FREDERIC MEN UNDER ARREST

PAT BURKE AND WM. ARNETT HELD ON BOOZE CHARGE.

Now in Bay City Federal Court.

Early last week a Federal search warrant was secured by some of the local officers, empowering them to search the premises of the J. W. Burke hotel of Frederic. This was done last Friday morning. Sheriff E. P. Richardson, undersheriff L. J. Kraus, prosecuting attorney Fitch and three members of the State police went to the Burke place early that morning and searched the place for booze. Plans of operation had been carefully made before the officers arrived and each was to station himself at certain places or rooms in the hotel and remain there while one started the search.

The trap was well set and the proprietor, J. W. Burke, and William Arnett were soon wearing handcuffs. About two and a half gallons of whiskey was found in the building. Arnett is reported to have been in the employ of Mr. Burke.

The men were brot to the Grayling jail where they were locked up until Sunday night when they were taken to Bay City by Mr. Kraus and Sgt. Palmer of the State Police. The men were arraigned in Federal court Monday and each plead not guilty and was remanded to the Bay City jail to await examination which will be held next Saturday.

It is said that the Burke hotel had been under suspicion for a long time. Mr. Burke has been in court a number of times, charged with violation of the liquor laws.

THE JUNIOR PROM.

With the spring of each year comes the annual school affair in which the young students of the schools are most interested, especially the Juniors as it is customary for them to entertain in honor of their superiors—the Seniors. The Junior Prom, that was held last Friday evening at the School gymnasium was a very delightful affair. The decorations, which were in Bohemian effect, were used throughout the various rooms that were used for the evening. The walls surrounding the ball room were panels of black with Bohemian designs of circles, triangles and butterflies fashioned of glazed paper in the pastel shades. This same scheme was carried out in the Vanity room, Smoking room and lunch room in the window drapes and tables. In the ball room over head were hundreds of balloons in the different colors which floated like so many bubbles in the air over the heads of the dancers. This made a very beautiful effect. Birds in cages hanging from the balcony in the four corners of the room sweetly chanted their melodies and here and there about the room, floor lamps and settees were placed. In the south balcony were seated Brocato's orchestra of Kalamazoo, who had been secured by the class to play for the evening. The music was much enjoyed by the dancers.

A most enjoyable feature of the evening was the solo dance by Miss Helen Bradley, a winsome little miss. She responded to a couple of encores and was loudly applauded. Also later in the evening she sang a number of the late popular airs. The Vanity room and Smoking room were something new. In the Vanity room easy chairs and dressing tables were arranged so that ladylike might rest for a moment and also powder her nose if she wished. Card tables were placed in the Smoking room where the gentlemen guests might smoke the "pipe of peace" and also enjoy a game at cards.

At an appointed hour lunch was announced which was served in two of the large rooms on the third floor. The tables were arranged so as to form "J" and "S" meaning Juniors and Seniors. The tables were centered with bouquets of flowers and here the Bohemian effect too was carried out in the delicious sandwiches, salad, frosted cakes and the ice cream, that with coffee was served in two courses. Several girls of the Freshman and Sophomore classes who wore black crepe paper aprons with the unique designs on them and head bands served the refreshments very nicely.

Miss Margaret Joseph, teacher of mathematics is credited with having planned the entire affair, and with the able help of the young students of the Junior class was able to carry out the beautiful and unusual decorations. And they, the class of '22 are to be congratulated on the affair that proved to be such a delightful one for all.

There were a large number of out-of-town guests and among them were Miss Sybil McCargo, Mrs. Frank Woodruff, Miss Ruth Woodruff, Mr. John Benore and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Lamb of Bay City; Mrs. Judson E. Bradley and Miss Helen Bradley of Flint; Miss Florence Smith of West Branch; Misses Amanda Lafrenier, Veronika Tobin, Helen Brasel and Mr. Teddy Sivrais, Cheboygan; Wm. Blong and Carl Anderson of Vanderbilt; Mrs. Sexton, Marshfield, Wis.; Miss Vera Dutcher, Wisconsin; Mrs. Charles E. Gallup of Boston; Mrs. Florence Venton of Frederic.

The members of the Junior Class are Hester Hanson, Ruth McCullough, Vella Hermann, Fern Hum, Ida Walden, Agnes Walden, Beatrice Austin, Oscar Taylor and Earl Nelson and who planned every detail of the affair in such a splendid manner. The guests of honor were the Seniors—Ingeborg Hanson, Louise Sal-Ching, Helen Brown, Mildred Bates, Charlotte Plagg, Lemmy Korhonen, Doris McLeod, Ruby Olson, Charles Kindness—a language which the dumb can speak and the deaf can understand.—Bowie.

Miss Mox and her brother wish to thank the faculty for the flowers sent during their recent bereavement.

A spelling contest between Frederic, the rural schools and our High School will be held Saturday at one o'clock in the Court House. Anyone may attend for ten cents.

Farnham's mother: "I heard a noise when you came in Friday night."

Mrs. Matson (coldly): "No it wasn't, it was the day breaking."

Don't forget the box social to be given in the near future by the Parent-Teachers' Association.

The playground committee met last week and ordered swings, a giant racer and a merry-go-round. Other playground equipment is being prepared.

Teacher—"Where was the Declaration of Independence signed?" John—"At the bottom, mum."

The faculty will entertain the School Board Thursday evening at a dinner party to be given at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Smith.

Base Ball season opened last week. The practices have been well attended and there is material for a good team. A schedule for games with the near-by towns will soon be finished.

The School Library will not be open any longer evenings next fall.

The Junior class will sell balloons at both Theatres Friday night if the weather is nice.

The grade children will put on the cantata "Queen of May" the 6th of next month, at the school house.

A record of the school children who were vaccinated this year is being made in the office. If any certificates have been lost, any one may refer to this record.

A school garden is to be planted this year by the students, any one having a lot to rent or knowing where one may be obtained, please notify Mr. Smith.

THE MAIL ORDER BOGEY IS DYING

NEW OPERATING PLANS IN THE AIR.

Farmers Now Begin to Realize They Can Trade More Satisfactorily and as Cheaply With Their Home Town Merchants.

(From the Perry (N. Y.) Herald.)

A few years ago Perry merchants in common with other rural communities were worrying about the mail order houses were unable to keep so conditions have been reversed. During and since the war prices fluctuated so greatly that the mail order houses were unable to keep their catalogues revised and, furthermore, they were unable to give service.

One farmer, living not far from here (and the instance is typical), early in the spring of 1920 sent for about $40 worth of seed. He sent the money with the order, but did not get his seed until late in July. In the meanwhile he was obliged to go to a local dealer and get his supply to "tide him over." He tried to get an adjustment with the mail order house, but the company refused to take the seed back, blaming the railroad for the delay. He now has some high-priced seed on his hands for 1921 use.

The annual reports of Montgomery Ward & Co. and Sears-Roebeck & Co. show heavy deficits, running into millions. Realizing that the mail order game is waning they have now established retail stores in the larger cities and eventually will probably go into the chain store business.

In analyzing the situation, an investigator gives four reasons for the change:

1. Good roads and automobiles have made it easier for people to reach the larger towns and cities, and consequently more folks are trading at home. When roads were hub deep in mud it was easier to write a letter and let the carrier get it than to "go to town," but with improved roads and autos it is only a few moments to the nearest store.
2. Mail order houses do not handle nationally advertised goods. The art of advertising has progressed so greatly during the past three years that people have become more discriminating and are calling chiefly for advertised products. The mail order houses handle goods made specially for them, "made to a price" rather than quality and quite often the catalogue description and the goods do not tally.
3. Local merchants, awake to the situation, now handle better stocks than ever before and are giving their customers service—and service is what most folks demand nowadays.

And in the fourth place, a majority of people have found out that there is very little economy in buying of the mail order houses. By the time freight is paid, the loss of the use of the money considered and the poor service given in shipments, the buyer is quite often out of pocket.

COMING.
A. S. Allard, eye sight specialist of Cheboygan will be in Grayling at Shoppenagons Inn, Tuesday, April 26. One day only. Fitting glasses that give service is my hobby. My equipment is modern and up-to-date, and I devote my entire time to examining eyes and fitting glasses, that give eye comfort and service.

Difficult cases and children's eyes a specialty. Remember the date—Tuesday, April 26, 4-14-22. A. S. Allard, O. D.

SAGINAW MAN LOOSES GOOD ORDER.

At the meeting of the executive committee of the Northeastern Michigan Development Bureau, held in Bay City recently, it developed that some of the bureau's members, the northern counties, are playing the game in earnest. For two years the Saginaw board of Supervisors has refused to carry their membership with the Development bureau and it develops that a few business men of the north have observed this situation. It was told at the meeting that one buyer had an order of $1,100 to give to either one of two traveling men calling at his office, both being there at the same time; one from Bay City and one from Saginaw.

It had been the practice of the buyer to place his orders alternately with Bay City and Saginaw houses and this time it was the Saginaw man's turn to get it and under ordinary circumstances the Saginaw man would have made the trip, but this particular buyer informed the Saginaw traveling man that inasmuch as Saginaw did not seem to care about the development of Northeastern Michigan, as carried on by the bureau, that he would give the order to the Bay City man, and the Bay City man got it.

The Saginaw salesman was somewhat irritated and explained that this was the fifth time on his trip that he had been up against the same proposition.—Bay City Times-Tribune.

REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING BOARD OF TRADE, APRIL 26.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade will be on Tuesday, April 26th. We expect to have something of vital interest to come up before the meeting and ask all members to be sure to come to the club rooms at 8 o'clock.

The Secretary.

Mrs. Robert O. Reynolds

"I have actually gained twenty-five pounds and I just think Tanlac is the greatest medicine in the world," said Mrs. Robert O. Reynolds, 127 North Denver St., Kansas City, Mo.

"For ten long years I suffered from a very bad form of rheumatism, stomach and nervous troubles. My appetite was very poor. What little I did eat soured on my stomach and I suffered the most severe pains in my back, hips and shoulders. My rheumatism was so bad that I could not raise my hands to comb my hair and my arms hurt me to my finger tips. I became so weak and run down that I lost all my energy and life had become almost a burden. I tried many things but nothing helped me.

"I had only taken my first bottle of Tanlac when I noticed my appetite was improving and I could sleep better at night. I have taken three bottles and the way it has helped me and built me up is really astonishing. I can eat anything and everything without the slightest disagreeable after-effects. I sleep just fine at night and am in better health than I have been for years. I am glad to give this statement, hoping that any who are suffering as I did may experience the same wonderful results which I believe they will if they give Tanlac a fair trial."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

The Needle Quick.

He carries a route from one of the News subscriptions. His pals worry a lot because, on the coldest days, he goes thinly clad. One of his pet bits of frigidly is wearing his clothing Scotch style—bare between the shin and knee. It gives the other kids the shivers to see him.

One cold day he blew in at paper hour and rushing up to the manager at the station exclaimed:

"Gee, I was lucky today, Sully."

"How was that, Mac? Did you buy some clothes?"

"No, I found a brand new fur."

"Yes."

"What kind of a fur was it?"

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for twenty-one years and proved safe by millions. Take Aspirin only as told in the Bayer package for Colds, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Earache, Toothache, Lumbago and for Pain. Handy tin boxes of twelve Bayer Tablets of Aspirin cost few cents. Druggists also sell larger packages. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monocellulose of Salicylic acid.—Adv.

MILLIONS FOR WAR MEMORIAL

Indiana Legislature Appropriated Nearly $10,000,000 for Legion Structure at State Capital.

A suitable national headquarters building of the American Legion in Indianapolis was assured with the passage of three bills by the state legislature, appropriating almost $10,000,000 for a war memorial structure, which will house the Legion's main offices.

Five city blocks in the heart of Indianapolis will be used for the memorial project. The building will be erected in the middle block, with the remaining plots transformed into a magnificent city plaza. At one exterior of the memorial site is located the Federal Postoffice building, erected at a cost of $6,000,000. Facing the outer end of the plaza is the $3,000,000 city library.

Tentative plans for the construction of the buildings are now in the hands of a state commission, of which Postmaster General Will H. Hays is a member. Selection of the architect will be made by the National Institute of Architecture, following a contest in which all architects of America have been invited to participate. The legislature set aside a fund of $100,000 to defray expenses of the contest and to award the artist whose designs and plans are adopted a prize of $50,000.

Invitations have been issued to national headquarters of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Women's Relief Corps, Service Star Legion, American War Mothers, Spanish War Veterans and Women's Auxiliary of the Legion to occupy quarters in the Memorial building along with the Legion.

To Dr. T. Victor Keene, national executive committee of Indiana, will go much of the credit for making the war memorial possible. Dr. Keene fathered the movement from its infancy and fought for it when other Legionnaires, although supporting the fight, were fearful of success. Dr. Keene was the first officer of the reserve corps of any branch of service called to active duty during the World War. He was a colonel, medical corps, in command of base hospital 70 overseas.

THE "MOTHER OF THE BONUS"

Friendly Title Assigned to Kansas Woman Member of the Legislature and Called "Legislady."

Mrs. Ida M. Walker, first woman member of the Kansas legislature, is honored by American Legion members of that state with the title of "Mother of the Bonus," for it was Mrs. Walker who drew up and pushed through a state bonus, which grants ex-service men one dollar for each day of military or naval service during the World War.

Although Mrs. Walker cannot qualify for membership in the Legion or in its Women's Auxiliary, she has been a tireless worker for the cause which brought the organizations into existence, and for which they now stand. During the World War she was state director of women's work in the Belgian relief fund and also served as food administrator for her county. "Mother of the Bonus" also assists her husband in the publication of a weekly newspaper and is a former president of the Kansas Federation of Women's Clubs.

The advent of Mrs. Walker to the legislature resulted in the coining of a new word. At loss to distinguish between male and female members, the recent session decided to refer to women lawmakers or "Legisladies."

Cedar Hen Nests.

The problem of keeping the hen's nest free from insects has been approached from a new angle by a farmer who is constructing nests for his hens out of cedar bark. Bugs, as every housewife knows, strongly object to cedar. For this purpose the bark is shredded and the buds of the tree included with it.

Earning His Money.

Tommy has a little friend who acts as chauffeur when they go for a ride in his toy car. One day Tommy went into his uncle's home to get warm, leaving Billy on the curb as usual. It was a cold day and the uncle remonstrated, telling him to go out and bring him in. "Oh, him's all right," replied Tommy. "He will have to get used to it or he won't get his twenty cents a week."

Saved My Life With Eatonic

Says New Jersey Woman

"I was nearly dead until I found Eatonic and I can truly say it saved my life. It is the best stomach medicine ever made," writes Mrs. Ella Smith.

Acid stomach causes awful misery which Eatonic quickly gets rid of by taking up and carrying out the acidity and gases which prevent good digestion. A tablet taken after meals brings quick relief. Keeps the stomach healthy and helps to prevent the many ills so liable to arise from excess acid. Don't suffer from stomach miseries when you can get a big box of Eatonic for a trifle with your druggist's guarantee.

Her Irritability.
"Blondie's got a terrible disposition, don't ya think?" asked Claudine of the rapid fire restaurant.
"I'll say she has," replied Heloise of the same establishment. "Why, night before last while she was strolling home three fellows in a motor car drove up to the curb, and one of 'em jumped out and grabbed her and tried to drag her into it. I s'pose she didn't like their looks or sump'n; anyhow, she began to yell, and slapped the first fella into the ditch and yanked the other two out of the car and like to have beat 'em to death before they could get away."—Kansas City Star.

Unfortunate Knowledge.
"I thought sure Jack and Miss Flytte would make a match of it. What caused the break?" said Smith.
"It was all due to Jack's unfortunate knowledge of Shakespeare. You see, when he proposed, Miss Flytte said: 'Well, here's my hand and my heart with it. 'Twas mine; 'tis yours.'"
"And has been slave to thousands, quoted Jack without thinking—and it was all off in the twinkling of an eye."

The Dramatic Instinct.
There was a picture of Daniel in the lion's den in the parlor, and little Betty had heard the story. She knew the lions had been told not to hurt Daniel because he was a good man, but one day, in an excited tone to the lions, she whispered:
"Bite him a little bit, anyway, Betty wants to see."—Harpers Magazine.

Returning the Ring.
Jeweler—Why do you want the diamond removed from this ring? It's a perfect stone.
Maud Grabbins—Well, I've broken my engagement with Mr. Green and it's against my principles to keep the ring.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT
Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.
Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store.
However, if you wish first to test the great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Pa Equal to Emergency.
Willie—Paw, can you name six noted legislative bodies?
Paw—Well, there's the American congress, and the British parliament, and the French chamber of deputies, and the German reichstag and the Japanese diet, my son.

Willie—But that's only five, and the teacher wants us to name six.
Paw—Well, there's the—er—the Hungarian goulash. Now, don't bother me. Can't you see I'm reading?—Cincinnati Enquirer.

An Adventure Romance

"Can't?" said Miss Thornton, with a new edge to her voice and something in her eyes that made them look as though they were passing in review all the unchaperoned years since first she made her debut as an independent scullery-maid at Mrs. Blumkin's feed-house. "I shall change nothing here," she concluded. "When Randy—Mr. Randolph comes back, he shall find his place cluttered with females."

Mr. Milvyns turned on her a gaze that was complex with admiration and a realization that he was on the way to hitting off more than he could chew. He decided to sidestep.

"Can you be in this afternoon?" he asked.

"Oh, yes," said Pamela, involuntarily glancing at the door and betraying a half-formed intention to watch that portal night and day until death or Mr. Robert Hervey Randolph arrived. "I'll be in. Why?"

"Mrs. Milvyns and my daughter Ellen will call on you at about five," explained Mr. Milvyns. "Just one more matter and I must go," he continued. "Your income amounts to something over eight hundred dollars a month. I shall pay it in advance until you get settled and have a chance to catch up."

"Please send me only half," said Pamela, as she rose to say good-by.

Mr. Milvyns took her hand, dropped it, and started toward the door, but before he got there, he stopped and turned.

"My dear," he said, losing for the moment his birdlike, chirpy pose, "I don't want you to think of me as just your banker. I know your father and your mother, and their fathers and mothers before them. I am fond, by old usage, of every drop of blood that runs in your veins. You won't forget that, will you?"

Pamela stared at him, swept toward him, threw her arms round his neck, hugged him, dropped her face on his shoulder and wept. Mr. Borden Milvyns stood very erect, his bald head held high, his pink cheeks puffed out, and his eyelids blinking at the rate of fifteen to the dozen in a vain effort to find back an amazing lachrymatory inundation.

"There, there," he said, patting Pamela on the back. "Who would have thought it, you adorable, lonely little girl!"

Pamela threw up her head and smiled through the sudden summer shower.

"I know it was ridiculous," she said. "But I couldn't help it. You made me like you all of a sudden, and I just had to, because you've had a bath and you look so clean inside and out." She kissed him as she spoke away.

"I see," said the astounded Mr. Milvyns, and beat it.

At two minutes after five the doorbell rang again. In spite of the fact that it was almost exactly the hour which Mr. Milvyns had set for the arrival of his wife and daughter, Pamela couldn't help hoping—in vain. It was with a slightly resigned air that she received Mrs. and Miss Milvyns instead of Mr. Robert Randolph.

Mrs. Milvyns flew to her, set hands on her shoulders, searched her face with eager shrewd eyes, and said: "Borden indeed told me the truth about you, my dear. May I kiss you?"

Pamela extended one cheek to the salute while her eyes wandered off to size up the tall, blonde, cool young person that she surmised must answer to the name of Ellen Milvyns. Being the product of two shorts, how on earth had she managed to grow so long? Her face was regularly beautiful, as though it had been carefully made to order like her clothes. She appeared as passive as a Palmer snow-scape.

After a little skirmishing for position, the three ladies seated themselves in a triangle, into the center of which the well-trained Tomlinson ran a tea-wagon.

"Now," said Mrs. Milvyns, having emptied and put down her cup, "let's forget the sheer romance of the situation, my dear, and get down to practical problems. The first of all things, as you must realize, is the necessity of getting you a companion. Would you care to be our guest in Madison avenue until you can pick one out?"

"I would put clothes ahead of a house," murmured Ellen.

Her mother ignored the remark and kept her eyes fixed on Miss Thornton's perplexed face. That young lady seemed in no lack of something to say but rather in search of words and the plunging courage necessary to the saying. She drew a long breath and delivered herself of the following:

"Really, it's most awfully kind of you, but, as I told Mr. Milvyns, Tomlinson is such a dear that I am going to continue him as my companion."

"Tomlinson?" exclaimed Mrs. Milvyns, and then smiled indulgently for the first time during the interview, being under the impression that at last she had run into something appropriately naive in the hearing of her new charge. "Of course you can keep him on, but you must realize that you can't live here without a woman in the house."

"Oh, yes, I can," said Miss Thornton, a little breathlessly. "I have a feeling—I can't explain it exactly—that this apartment is a one-woman setting. As I said to Mr. Milvyns, I don't want to clutter it with females."

A silent laugh crept into the eyes of the marbleque Ellen; something inside of her sat up and took notice. She glanced round the room and murmured:

"Mother, she's absolutely right. I'm for her."

"Right!" Ellen! exclaimed Mrs. Milvyns, flushing in her indignation at finding a traitor in the home camp. "I don't know what your generation is coming to. The impossible is never right."

Having taken up her suave cudgel, Ellen was in no haste to lay it down, and may it be pointed out right here that Miss Imogene Pamela Thornton had the rare faculty of enlisting the nearest bystander to assume her lath-house. "I shall change nothing here," she concluded. "When Randy—Mr. Randolph comes back, he shall find his place cluttered with females."

Mr. Milvyns turned on her a gaze that was complex with admiration and a realization that he was on the way to hitting off more than he could chew. He decided to sidestep.

"Can you be in this afternoon?" he asked.

"Oh, yes," said Pamela, involuntarily glancing at the door and betraying a half-formed intention to watch that portal night and day until death or Mr. Robert Hervey Randolph arrived. "I'll be in. Why?"

"Mrs. Milvyns and my daughter Ellen will call on you at about five," explained Mr. Milvyns. "Just one more matter and I must go," he continued. "Your income amounts to something over eight hundred dollars a month. I shall pay it in advance until you get settled and have a chance to catch up."

"Please send me only half," said Pamela, as she rose to say good-by.

Mr. Milvyns took her hand, dropped it, and started toward the door, but before he got there, he stopped and turned.

"My dear," he said, losing for the moment his birdlike, chirpy pose, "I don't want you to think of me as just your banker. I know your father and your mother, and their fathers and mothers before them. I am fond, by old usage, of every drop of blood that runs in your veins. You won't forget that, will you?"

Pamela stared at him, swept toward him, threw her arms round his neck, hugged him, dropped her face on his shoulder and wept. Mr. Borden Milvyns stood very erect, his bald head held high, his pink cheeks puffed out, and his eyelids blinking at the rate of fifteen to the dozen in a vain effort to find back an amazing lachrymatory inundation.

"There, there," he said, patting Pamela on the back. "Who would have thought it, you adorable, lonely little girl!"

Pamela threw up her head and smiled through the sudden summer shower.

"I know it was ridiculous," she said. "But I couldn't help it. You made me like you all of a sudden, and I just had to, because you've had a bath and you look so clean inside and out." She kissed him as she spoke away.

"I see," said the astounded Mr. Milvyns, and beat it.

At two minutes after five the doorbell rang again. In spite of the fact that it was almost exactly the hour which Mr. Milvyns had set for the arrival of his wife and daughter, Pamela couldn't help hoping—in vain. It was with a slightly resigned air that she received Mrs. and Miss Milvyns instead of Mr. Robert Randolph.

Mrs. Milvyns flew to her, set hands on her shoulders, searched her face with eager shrewd eyes, and said: "Borden indeed told me the truth about you, my dear. May I kiss you?"

Pamela extended one cheek to the salute while her eyes wandered off to size up the tall, blonde, cool young person that she surmised must answer to the name of Ellen Milvyns. Being the product of two shorts, how on earth had she managed to grow so long? Her face was regularly beautiful, as though it had been carefully made to order like her clothes. She appeared as passive as a Palmer snow-scape.

After a little skirmishing for position, the three ladies seated themselves in a triangle, into the center of which the well-trained Tomlinson ran a tea-wagon.

"Now," said Mrs. Milvyns, having emptied and put down her cup, "let's forget the sheer romance of the situation, my dear, and get down to practical problems. The first of all things, as you must realize, is the necessity of getting you a companion. Would you care to be our guest in Madison avenue until you can pick one out?"

"I would put clothes ahead of a house," murmured Ellen.

Her mother ignored the remark and kept her eyes fixed on Miss Thornton's perplexed face. That young lady seemed in no lack of something to say but rather in search of words and the plunging courage necessary to the saying. She drew a long breath and delivered herself of the following:

"Really, it's most awfully kind of you, but, as I told Mr. Milvyns, Tomlinson is such a dear that I am going to continue him as my companion."

"Tomlinson?" exclaimed Mrs. Milvyns, and then smiled indulgently for the first time during the interview, being under the impression that at last she had run into something appropriately naive in the hearing of her new charge. "Of course you can keep him on, but you must realize that you can't live here without a woman in the house."

"Oh, yes, I can," said Miss Thornton, a little breathlessly. "I have a feeling—I can't explain it exactly—that this apartment is a one-woman setting. As I said to Mr. Milvyns, I don't want to clutter it with females."

A silent laugh crept into the eyes of the marbleque Ellen; something inside of her sat up and took notice. She glanced round the room and murmured:

"Mother, she's absolutely right. I'm for her."

"Right!" Ellen! exclaimed Mrs. Milvyns, flushing in her indignation at finding a traitor in the home camp. "I don't know what your generation is coming to. The impossible is never right."

Having taken up her suave cudgel, Ellen was in no haste to lay it down, and may it be pointed out right here that Miss Imogene Pamela Thornton had the rare faculty of enlisting the nearest bystander to assume her lath-house. "I shall change nothing here," she concluded. "When Randy—Mr. Randolph comes back, he shall find his place cluttered with females."

Mr. Milvyns turned on her a gaze that was complex with admiration and a realization that he was on the way to hitting off more than he could chew. He decided to sidestep.

"Can you be in this afternoon?" he asked.

"Oh, yes," said Pamela, involuntarily glancing at the door and betraying a half-formed intention to watch that portal night and day until death or Mr. Robert Hervey Randolph arrived. "I'll be in. Why?"

"Mrs. Milvyns and my daughter Ellen will call on you at about five," explained Mr. Milvyns. "Just one more matter and I must go," he continued. "Your income amounts to something over eight hundred dollars a month. I shall pay it in advance until you get settled and have a chance to catch up."

"Please send me only half," said Pamela, as she rose to say good-by.

Mr. Milvyns took her hand, dropped it, and started toward the door, but before he got there, he stopped and turned.

"My dear," he said, losing for the moment his birdlike, chirpy pose, "I don't want you to think of me as just your banker. I know your father and your mother, and their fathers and mothers before them. I am fond, by old usage, of every drop of blood that runs in your veins. You won't forget that, will you?"

Marking Passing of Time.
The sand glass, sun dial, watch and clock have proved invaluable in marking the passing of time, but how about this, heard in a room, noticeable for lack of light, in a home in North Illinois street, when Mr. Butler College called on Miss Shortridge High School.

"Why, John, just four kisses ago you said—"
A laugh from the next room cut the sentence short.—Indianapolis News.

A western man advertising for a wife says he wants a woman with ideas. He'll get that no matter what woman he marries.—Boston Transcript.

There's no doubt that in five minutes more Mr. Gloom would have assumed full sway in the late apartment of Mr. Robert H. Randolph had not a long procession of parcels begun to arrive in the nick of time. Tomlinson brought them into the bedroom, one, two, three at a haul, and Pamela herself cut the knots with Mr. Randolph's best nail-scissors and laid out the goods, flung full upon flimsy fold.

By the time Ellen turned up the apartment looked like the storeroom of a millionaire young lady returning from Paris with nothing to wear and preparing to swear to it before all the customs officials in Gotham. Tomlinson was ordered to fill the cellar with wrapping-paper, tissue-paper, cardboard boxes and string, burning what was left over in the back yard.

As soon as sufficient space had been cleared for action, the two girls set to work, and were soon involved in such an orgy of "trying on" as only the healthiest stamina of youth could have endured without falling over in a dead faint from exhaustion. Even Ellen divested her person of everything but, and experimented with such dear garments as it seemed impossible Miss Thornton could get round to in the allotted time.

Having tried to show the public how charming was Pamela in and without her cheap clothes, no puerile and gasping effort will be made in these pages to measure the effect upon her of the latest creations of the raiment dream-works of Fifth avenue. Suffice it to say that, in one hour's twinkling of the eye, she became such a radiant vision as chokes mere words down into the pit of a man's stomach, makes his jaw work like that of a fish on a hot sidewalk, fills his eyes with the pleading light of cat-love and inspires his hands with an overmastering desire to reach for it.

For two, four, six days, a week, two weeks, Pamela lived in breathless anticipation of the moment when she could burst upon the eyesight of Mr. Robert Hervey Randolph, and when all these days—and weeks—passed without any news of him, her lips that were made to smile, to kiss, and to bless the air with words softly spoken and carried on the fragrance of clean young breath began to droop pitifully.

Mr. Milvyns' efforts in several directions had so far proved in vain. He had advertised in every paper in Gotham, from the New York Epoch to the pink Police Gazette; he had offered rewards; he had set traps and was now supporting a large corps of rapidly fattening individuals who called themselves "plain-clothes" men—a name that would have fitted them admirably had the last syllable been omitted. His net results were the information that Mr. Randolph, in a reprehensible state of intoxication and at seven o'clock of the morning of which he had disappeared, had exchanged his well evening garments at a second-hand emporium on Sixth avenue for a suit of thick and eighteen dollars in cash, stating as he left the place that he was thinking of going South for the rest of the winter.

POINTS OUT HUSBAND'S DUTY
Writer insists No Man May Stand in the Light of His Wife's Domestic Ambitions.

"Puzzled husband" writes us that he is sorely tried by his wife's ambition to bake the family bread, and other things. His domestic affection and spirit of chivalry will not permit him to tell his wife the truth—that the bread is almost as heavy as a paving stone and quite as indigestible. So he goes to work every morning with a heavy heart and an even heavier stomach, and is bedeviled with gripes and abdominal pains all day. Greene M. Farley writes in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Not only that, but his wife is a constant reader of domestic science departments and she uses him as an experiment station. This last week, he says, he had biscuits that would do for sinkers on a fish line and an angel cake that could not be differentiated from old putty. The heartrending feature is that she asks him with a bright smile how he likes it all, and he cannot find it in his breast to tell the truth about it; so he lies frankly and wholeheartedly.

All this is getting on his nerves and on his stomach and on his conscience. In the course of a little time he feels his life insurance is going to be due.

Should he tell her the truth, or should he suffer in silence and let her go ahead and collect the life insurance?

If life is worth anything to him he should conclude to tell her the truth and let her go ahead and procure her divorce. She might find a second husband with a cast-iron digestive apparatus and the present husband ought not to stand in the way of his wife's career as a domestic scientist.

Eskimo Indians No Longer Satisfied With the Primitive Houses of Snow of Their Fathers.

Ox-Cart Still Used as Method of Transportation in Parts of the South and in India.

It is a matter of government recognition that the Eskimo Indians of the Pribilof islands are rapidly gaining in sophistication, as the prices of the seal-skins and blue and gray fox pelts they sell mount higher and higher. Those bits of frozen land in Bering sea, whose total area is less than seventy square miles, have only about 350 inhabitants, yet they are being assailed by all the aspirations of prosperity and are beginning to buy the most interesting items of the mail-order catalogues for sale. So United States engineers are building them igloos of concrete, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, thus substituting the most substantial of materials for what seems, from the temperate zone viewpoint, the most ephemeral. The builders, however, are careful to adhere closely to the native style of architecture.

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME.

Positive Teaching Superior to Negative Teaching.
(By Adele F. Woodard, President, National Motion Picture League.)

"Why, Alston," said his mother, "I do believe that you are teaching your parrot to swear!"
"No, I'm not, Mother," Alston replied, "I'm just telling it what it mustn't say."
And so do many movies! They try to teach what not to do, instead of presenting stories of decent, wholesome living, with its thrills and laughter and vigor.

Negative teaching does harm, rather than good. Positive stories which entertain, amuse and educate, are becoming the much-sought-out movie of today.

Not long ago, a child of seven was permitted to see a carefully prepared photoplay of a very fond mother whose craving for a son who should have the soul of music was at last realized. One of her children showed an intense longing for a violin. With a delicacy and finesse rarely found in motion pictures, the struggle and final triumph of this musician were portrayed and a desire to be something other than commonplace was the deep impression made upon the audience. This impression upon the child of seven took definite shape in an intense desire for a violin too, so great, that at last his parents were persuaded to purchase one for him. The chief ambition of the little fellow is to learn to play, and the violin when it is not in use, is being carefully guarded, wrapped tenderly and placed upon a high shelf. He will probably become a musician but if he doesn't he is better and finer for having experienced that longing to be better than his environment.

It is necessary for thinking people to exert every energy to turn this potent medium of entertainment, amusement and education into channels for good.

Advance information on worth while films in the form of current weekly lists, coming into the home each week, assists parents in their selection of motion picture recreation for themselves and their children. The lists of films should be selected by persons having no financial connection with the motion picture industry, who have a wide knowledge of psychology, and definite experience in social work.

In one of our largest cities the school board has contracted for specially prepared weekly lists of endorsed films for every principal in the city. The school principal, in turn, publishes the lists in school papers and bulletins so that many school children in that city have the opportunity of taking home each week the list of endorsed films soon to be played in nearby theatres. This gives the family the power of the production of what some films selection. If this service were extended to all school boards in the country, the demand for this type of film would be almost overwhelming. There is no doubt that producers would then turn their attention to the production of wholesome films because of their increased popularity and consequent increased profit.

The movies are worthy of our attention. It is possible to reconstruct them so that they will be an aid to civilization rather than a menace to the American public is urged to seek out and support by its patronage wholesome motion pictures, many of which are being shown in the theatres of the country.

Note: Parents may obtain information about endorsed motion picture films by writing to the National Motion Picture League, 381 Fourth Ave., New York City.

CHANCERY NOTICE.

State of Michigan,
In the Circuit Court for the County of Crawford. In Chancery.

William B. Mereshon, Plaintiff, vs.
The Gratiwick, Smith and Fryer Lumber Company, a corporation, Mary A. Love, Myrtle Collins and Thomas E. Douglas, Defendants.

On the 5th day of March, A. D. 1921, Suit pending in the 34th Judicial Circuit in the Circuit Court for the County of Crawford. In Chancery.

In this cause it appearing by the bill of complaint filed herein that said cause is brought to quiet the title to that certain piece or parcel of land lying and being in the County of Crawford and State of Michigan and described as the Southwest quarter of the Southeast quarter of section nineteen in Township Twenty-eight, North of Range one West.

And it also appearing by the return of the sheriff of said County filed in this court and cause to the summons issued herein, and by the affidavit of Geo. L. Alexander, attorney for the plaintiff herein, that a summons to appear and answer has been duly issued in this cause but could not be served upon the defendants herein. The Gratiwick, Smith and Fryer Lumber Company, because there are no living officers of said Company, not upon said defendants Mary A. Love and Myrtle Collins because both said Mary A. Love and Myrtle Collins are not residents of the State of Michigan, but are residents of the State of Indiana.

On motion of Geo. L. Alexander, plaintiff's attorney, it is ordered that the appearance of said defendants, The Gratiwick, Smith and Fryer Lumber Company, Mary A. Love and Myrtle Collins be entered within three months from the date of this order, and that in case of their appearance, or the appearance of either of them. They, or the one appearing cause its or her answer to the bill of complaint to be filed and a copy thereof served upon the attorney for the plaintiff within fifteen days after service upon it or them or upon its or their attorney of a copy of the said bill, and that in default thereof that said bill be taken as confessed by the said defendants, The Gratiwick, Smith and Fryer Lumber Company, Mary A. Love and Myrtle Collins.

And it is further ordered, that the said plaintiff cause this order to be published in the Crawford Avalanche a newspaper printed, published and circulating in said County, that said publication be commenced within twenty days from the date of this order and that said publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or that the said plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be personally served upon said defendants, The Gratiwick, Smith and Fryer Lumber Company, Mary A. Love and Myrtle Collins at least twenty days before the time above prescribed for their appearance.

Geo. L. Alexander, Guy E. Smith, Plaintiff Attorney. Circuit Judge.

Formal Opening Delayed

Owing to the delay in obtaining some of the material for my new building it will be necessary to delay my formal opening for a few days.

The Carpenters and decorators are still working never-the-less I have in a small stock and am doing some business every day even tho my store is not open. Just can't keep people away. Everybody is waiting for my new store to open and believe me you will be glad you waited. I'm going to have some fine things in ladies' and men's wearing apparel. Just you wait and see.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATIONS FOR 1921—APRIL 28, 29 and 30.

1. A part of the questions for all grades of certificates in the teachers' examinations for April and August, 1921, will be based on the State Teachers' Reading Circle books for 1920-21, and a part on certain bulletins issued by the Department of Public Instruction.

2. The State Teachers' Reading Circle books for the year are: Free-land's Modern Elementary School Practice published by the Macmillan Company; Engleman's Moral Education in School and Home, published by Benj. H. Sanborn & Co. and Smith's What Can Literature Do For Me, published by Doubleday, Page & Co.

3. The bulletins of the Department of Public Instruction which will be considered in the preparation of questions are Bulletin No. 4, The Teaching of Reading, Bulletin No. 10, Word Study and Spelling, and Bulletin No. 30, Language Lessons.

4. The material on which the eighth grade examination in Reading in 1921 will be based will be announced later.

By a vote of the Board of Examiners all teachers who intend teaching in Crawford County next year are requested to write in this County. Papers must be checked here.

Commissioner of Schools.

COUNTY NURSE VISITS RURAL SCHOOLS.

Miss Walton, Red Cross nurse for Crawford county has been very busy these days visiting the rural schools. The schools so far visited this spring are as follows: Love, Benedict, Williams, Lincoln, Funck, Edmonds, Cobb and Coventry.

Miss Walton reports that she found the general conditions fair. There is not much sickness and she says that the teachers have been very cooperative. Health talks were given in each school and the attendance in the rural districts has been very good.

Among the special matters mentioned by Miss Walton is about as follows:

The Benedict is a standard school with modern equipment, furnaces, etc.

The Funck is a model school. There hot lunches are served at noon for the pupils.

The Edmonds school has a very modern drinking fountain.

Miss Walton expects to finish the rural schools this week. During her visits she is also trying to advertise the TB clinic that is to be held in Grayling and Frederic April 25 to 29th.

Wm. F. Johnston and wife of Cadillac were here Monday shaking hands with old friends. Fred is still holding down the position of agricultural agent for Wexford county—Roscommon Herald-News.

As we walk through the woods these wonderful spring days and see the trailing Arbutus with its beautiful colors coming up and the trees putting on their buds, we then say to ourselves that life is worth living after all. To us the Arbutus is the sweetest flower of all, for it is the first to come out to cheer us up after the hardships of a long, hard winter. And fragrance! Oh, it makes us think of all the flowers in the world put together and yet it has that sweet wild fragrance of the woods. Our Northern country is to be proud indeed of this the sweetest flower of all.

DIANA WELLS HOCH.

Mrs. Diana Hoch passed away at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wells, Frederic, on March 29, after an extended illness of tuberculosis.

Diana Wells was born January 26, 1889. She was married in 1914 to Wm. Hoch at Windsor, Canada.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Terhune of Frederic, March 29th from the M. P. church; interment was in the Frederic cemetery.

COMING.

E. C. Silverthorn, eyesight specialist and registered Optometrist will be in Grayling at the Shoppington Inn, two days—April 14th and 15th. If your eyes bother you in any way or you haven't that clear cut comfortable vision, you had when you were younger, now is the time to have them looked after. Fitting of proper glasses to children, my specialty. Remember the days—Thursday and Friday, April 14 and 15th. 8-31-3.

NOTICE FOR SEALED BIDS.

Sealed Proposals will be received from the Medical fraternity for the care and medicine for the Crawford County Poor from May 1st, 1921 to April 30, 1922. The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids. Proposals to be received up to April 29, 1921.

FOUND A CURE FOR INDIGESTION.

"I use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for indigestion and find they suit my case better than any dyspepsia remedy I have ever tried and I have used many different medicines. I am nearly fifty one year of age and have suffered a great deal from indigestion. I can eat almost anything I want now," writes George W. Emory, Rock Mills, Ala. These tablets contain no poison but strengthen the stomach and enable it to digest the food naturally. Adv.

GLYCERINE MIXTURE SURPRISES GRAYLING.

The quick action of simple glycerine, buckthorn bark, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka, is surprising. One spoonful relieves any case gas on stomach or sour stomach. Adler-i-ka acts on both upper and lower bowel and removes all foul accumulated matter which poisoned stomach. Often cures constipation. Prevents appendicitis. One lady reports she has no more pain in back of head or gas on stomach since using Adler-i-ka.

Studebaker SPECIAL-SIX

If you wonder why the SPECIAL-SIX, at its exceptionally low price, represents the greatest value among five-passenger quality cars, consider only this one important fact:

Studebaker manufactures completely in its own plants its drop forgings, castings, stampings, motors, axles, transmissions, steering gears, springs, bodies, tops, fenders and other vital parts, thereby eliminating middlemen's profits.

With such unexcelled manufacturing advantages, and large quantity production, it is only natural that Studebaker is able to offer cars of sterling high quality at prices that make them the most exceptional values on the market.

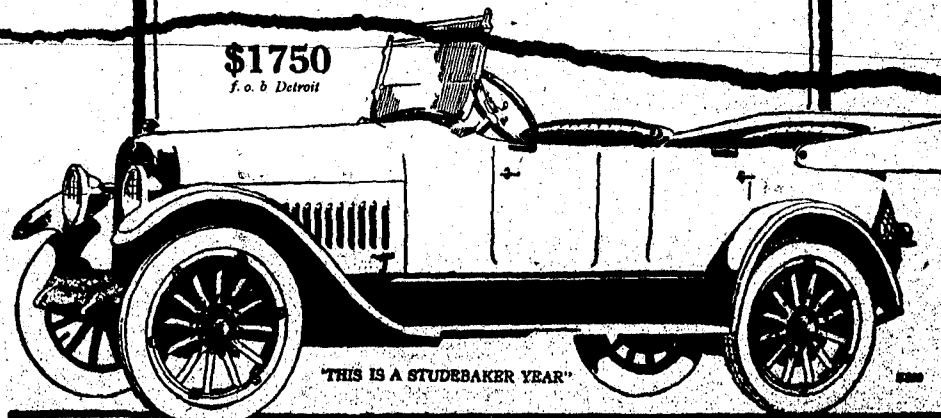

Take a SPECIAL-SIX, demonstration ride—or better still, drive the car yourself and get the "feel" of the wheel—and you will be convinced that its mechanical excellence is a revelation.

Compare Studebaker Cars, point by point, with other cars selling hundreds of dollars higher than Studebaker prices—and we will be satisfied with your judgment.

Extra specials will be placed on the counter each day to keep the public interested. For several weeks past this firm has been on the outlook, picking up all merchandise that has been thrown on the market at very low prices. When the turn of the tide came some fine were picked up, what they considered too big stocks of certain merchandise, and naturally became anxious to unload, at figures much below market prices. This is some of the merchandise that Sorenson Bros. have secured their share of and are now passing same over to the buying public of this vicinity. The people of Grayling are assured that this will be a real Rainbow sale, and it will not be difficult for to find the pot of gold.

John Moon, Jr. of Beaver Creek township and Miss Lucile Treat, a teacher in the schools of that township, were quietly united in marriage at Rosecommon on March 12th by Rev. C. B. Lyon of Rosecommon.

Mrs. Judson E. Bradley and daughter Miss Helen returned to their home in Flint Tuesday after a pleasant visit for a few days with Mrs. Bradley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Chamberlin. Miss Helen, who came to Grayling to give a solo dance at the Junior Prom and who is ten years old, attends the Mohare Dancing academy in Flint. She is a clever little dancer and has a clear sweet voice.

One Grayling merchant this week, when asked if he didn't believe in advertising, replied, Yes, but not in a weekly newspaper. When asked to explain he said, because just as soon as the paper is out the other merchants look over the prices of the advertisers and mark their prices down accordingly. Here we again have first hand proof that the fellow who advertises is the one who is forcing down the prices. He comes down on his prices and forces the others to come down. Now, friends, who is the one who deserves your patronage? The one who would make you pay the limit until he is forced to lower his prices or the one that forces the others to come down? No matter if the other fellows cut their prices below that of the advertisers, just remember he wouldn't do it if he wasn't forced to do so.

Mesdames A. J. Joseph and Harry Simpson were hostesses at one of the most elaborate and enjoyable luncheons, which has been given this spring. The affair was given at Shoppenagons Inn Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Joseph and Mrs. Simpson were gowned in yellow and received their guests in the blue room of the Inn. At 1:30 o'clock the guests were invited to the dining room which had been transformed into a May day garden, yellow butterflies seemingly flying everywhere. On the small tables were vases of yellow daffodils while at each place were yellow blossomed place cards and a corsage bouquet. A most delicious luncheon was served after which most of the ladies played "500" while others sewed. Mrs. Oscar Schumann and Mrs. Hyman Joseph held the highest scores. The affair was beautifully arranged and greatly enjoyed by those present. Out of town guests were Mrs. J. T. Lamb of Bay City and Mrs. Sexton of Marshfield, Wis.

MISSING-GOOD THINGS.

Last Sunday many people miss some good things when they did not come to the Michelson Memorial church. Dr. Musser spoke to first audiences both morning and evening and gave interesting talks to the Sunday school. All the people say come again to Dr. Musser.

More and more is the church becoming a regular thing in the people's thought. This is as it should be. The progressive community are those where the order of home, church, and then things in order. Put the church life where it should be. Next Sunday other fine crowds will be there to make newcomers welcome. Find your place with us and become a regular.

The books from the Sunday school library can be had next Sunday. We have a fine little library to which new books will be added from time to time. Look them over.

The Beginners and Cradle Roll Departments of the Sunday school are growing faster than any of the others. Lots of little people find their way to the Sunday school.

We are all going to church next Sunday. Of course.

C. E. Doty.
